SW authentication with support of AURUM

Integration and modularity are a key aspect for cheap and reliable functionalities to build tomorrow space segments. The authentication unit is usually support through a hardware component, which costs in space and money. The SW authentication library has been developed to support this function in the central SW of the Satellite. This presentation will detailed the design of this solution and will be compared to the hardware solution.